General Comment

The Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury are inviting public comments through a Request for Information (RFI) regarding issues under the Wellstone-Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008.

I'm a big fan of neurofeedback for ADHD. Others will write of supportive evidence. I find it compelling as a scientist and practitioner.

I want to contribute the notion that neurofeedback is a form of applied behavior analysis. ABA is a well accepted form of treatment for behaviorior conditions. Neurofeedback meets all the requirements of an ABA approach.
